TELLS OF PLOT AGAINST GOVERNMENT

Major General George Van Horn Moseley struck this unusual attitude in Washington as he told the congressional un-American committee that he had warned General Malin Craig, army chief of staff. of a plot to overthrow the government. The retired officer shouted that President Roosevelt ought to use the army to fight Communism in the United States.

Cats Called Destructive According to the National Wildlife federation, the animals most destructive to wildlife on the farm are three that make their nome with man-the cat, the rat and the dog. There has been so much said about the harm done by cats that progressive farmers no longer tolerate stray cats about their property. Without counting any other loss from cats, the destruction of insecteating birds calls for the most rigorous control of this persistent prowler of the fields. Studies of hunting cats show that they follow regular routes, so that if one is seen it can usually be captured by setting a trap in the locality. Various forms of box traps are effective, since the cat is not a trap-shy animal. No estimate can be made of the damage done by rats at a distance from dwellings. In warm weather, rats take to the fields and marshes and are completely "wild." They are almost as fond of water as muskrats, and swim and dive about as well as their valuable relatives.

Improve Butterfat Yields In 10 years members of dairyherd improvement associations throughout the country have so improved their herds that the average yearly butterfat production of association cows has increased about 30 pounds, reports Dr. J. F. Kendrick of the federal bureau of dairy industry. This increase in production, brought about by culling out poor producers, by feeding the remaining ows according to production, and by better selection of dairy sires, has increased returns to association members by about $8,000,000 a year.

46 Species of Bats There are 46 species of bats in the United States, the National Wildlife federation reports in its Wildlife Week stamp album. Although bats in some parts of the world eat fruit, and a few of them suck the blood of animals, all the bats in this country live on insects. The largest bat in North America is the California mastiff bat, six and a half inches long. Anybody past the age of 40 who is able to hear the squeak of a bat has exceptionally good hearing, scientists say.

It is safe to say, perhaps, that Bergdoll himself feels the same way about it now. At last he appreciates the country where he it. was born and where his family fortune was made. He must have felt greatly out of place in Nazi Germany, and the Nazis certainly had no love for him.

Bergdoll has now about half-way redeemed himself. Final judgment may be passed when it is seen how he stands his punishment and what he does with the rest of his life.

CONVINCING THE DICTATORS

One of the best recent interpretations of the military situation in Europe is this, by Leon Blum, former French premier, writing in the New York Tribune:

"I have long been convinced that the worst danger of war resides in the persistent delusion of the dictators. For some years they have won without risking anything. Perhaps the whole chance of peace lies in convincing | more beds occupied by mental patients. them that any new aggression would encounter resistance and lead to war.

But Americans have watched the stiffening of the spines of the French and British governments with growing respect. Lately the accession of Poland, Rumania, Turkey and other small countries to their side shows a growing conviction on the continent that the former pacifists now mean

The accession of Russia and some minor dictatorships to the ranks of the big democracies, while confusing the "ideological" lineup, should be a conclusive warning to the two armed countries justly called "aggressive." Hitler and Mussolini and their advisers-if any-should realize now that they cannot get away any longer with their game of bluff, threat and grab.

OLD HOMES, VANISHED WEALTH

Westbrook Pegler, prosperous syndicate columnist, who still gets around a bit, takes note of the decay of fine homes and families. which has been proceeding lately at a faster nace than usual.

"Everywhere I roam," he says, "there is evidence, in the dilapidation of old homes, that if wealth does tend to concentrate in the possession of a small group of people, then hat group itself is like a golf club in that the membership is always changing.

"The old ones die off or go broke and quietly vanish, and the heirs of those who did not go broke, on coming into the money, take second or third cut after the taxes have been collected, and, dividing it among them, find that individually they are unable to maintain the old mansions of the best families."

This fact is observable in any city. And it is a pity in some ways. As a social principle in democracy it is good, perhaps, for wealth to keep shifting and for classes to move up and down freely in the social and man thermometer during the night was 64 degrees economic scale. Yet the fine old homes and classes in tennis, the fine old people who lived in them have Another Diplomatic Triumph? nearly always "had something." They had, perhaps, dignity and culture and honorable standards, along with their gracious living. Something is gone from the community, possibly forever, when the old mansions are turned into cheap boarding houses, or sold for taxes and torn down to make room for public garages.

ARITHMETIC AND LIFE

Kids may play hookey from school because they don't want to do their arithmetic or some other school tasks, but "math" is really one of their best friends.

Dr. Martin L. Reymert, director of the laboratory for child research at Mooseheart, Ill., recently told members of a conference on delinquency prevention that arithmetic is "the most significant of all the studies," especially for boys. A boy who likes it, or masters it in spite of not liking it, has or develops an effective personality.

"Arithmetic," said Dr. Reymert, "represents a set of habits which are of basic importance in dealing with other people fairly and squarely, not only in such simple acts as sharing the cost of a luncheon, but in keeping score, in the household budget, in business,

Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act. ALL NEED MENTAL TREATMENT

About fifty per cent of all the beds in hospitals are occupied by mental patients. As we think of the sayings and actions of some of our friends and acquaintances, and also, at times, of our own sayings and actions, the wonder is that there are not even some lines and a superiority complex along others. In fact, many of us are "border-line" mental cases that require but some shock to make us, for the time being at least, fit patients for a mental hos-

In speaking of how easy, how almost naturally, normal individuals can become mental patients J. P. S. Cathcart, Chief Neuropsychiatrist of Pensions and National Health, says:

"During the life time of each and every one of us experiences are encountered that continue to have painful and distressing associations (or memories) because of our inability to understand or de satisfictorly with them. Our only recourse is that of forgetting, but actually nothing is forgotten; certainly nothing of an emotional nature. The painful event may and does often keep out of our conscious thoughts. We push the memories of these painful experiences aside and call this 'repression' and the repressed experience is a 'conflict.' Just as long can prevent these repressions and conflicts from interfering with our everyday life and responsibilities we can consider ourselves norma when these past painful experiences become a large part of our daily thoughts, they influence our ac-tions and we do abnormal or unreasonable things." I believe the definition of a "normal" individual as outlined by Dr. Cathcart in National Health Review should help us all. 'The normal individual is one who is 'comparatively' free of symptoms, is unhampered by serious mental conflicts, has a satisfactory working ability and can love some one else besides himself. In oth words, he is an individual who has the capacity ability to become adjusted to life, to give and take, and to maintain a satifactory balance between himself and his surroundings or circumstances."

Cleaning Fluid Stops Bleeding

philia With Oxalic Acid, Ink Remover.

TORONTO .- A startling discovery that the common hat-cleaning fluid and ink remover, oxalic acid, stops the "royal curse" hemophilia

The report was made to the Federation of American Scientists for Experimental Biology by Arthur Steinberg and William R. Brown of Kensington hospital. Philadelphia.

At first the assembled biologists gasped in surprise and refused to believe. Oxalic acid is a poison and is known, in test tubes, to do exactly the opposite of helping blood to clot quickly.

Even when the Philadelphians disclosed that more than 500 humans, in more than a dozen large hospitals, have had their hemorrhages stopped, and in some cases their lives saved, with oxalic acid, the biologists continued skeptical.

Process Demonstrated.

The fact that a tiny amount of the acid injected into a living body acted exactly the opposite from its test tube ways was finally demonstrated before the eyes of a group of doubters. They went to a University of Toronto laboratory, where acid was taken from the taken from the days of cloudy weather.

The rainfall during May was extremely light with a total precipitation of 1.10 inches.

Tests Successful.

Six American hemophiliacs, the report stated, had their time of stopping hemorrhage cut to less than that of normal persons by injections of oxalic acid.

One was a child who had scratched his throat eating rock candy. His normal time to end bleeding was 45 minutes. The acid reduced this time to 45 seconds. It was necessary to continue giving the acid from time to time until

Park Service Inaugurates

Charge for Auto Trailers Following recommendations of the advisory committee on camping, the national park service has announced a revision of fees in federal recreational demonstration areas, inaugurating a trailer charge, but reducing individual fees.

The regular fee of 25 cents a night per camper for organized camping facilities by groups is reduced to 15 cents. No change is made in rates for permanent camps used for seasonal organized camping.

Sixty organized camps have been prepared for this season, with more than 1,000,000 camper-days use expected, the park service said.

A new Automatic Gas Water Heater has just been developed, one which costs LESS TO BUY and LESS TO USE. It's small in size but the instant you open a hot water faucet piping hot water begins to flow, and it flows as long as the faucet is left open. It doesn't make any difference how many people use hot water —you can't exhaust the supply.

The reason for this is that inside the water heater is a coil of pipe. When you open the hot water faucet cold water flows through this pipe, but, because the water heater is AUTOMATIC you have also turned the gas on which, of course, heats the water. If the faucet were left open long enough you could heat the Hudson River . . . but, by the same token, if you don't open a faucet, you spend nothing. Cats Called Destructive According to the National Wildlife federation, the animals most destructive to wildlife on the farm are three that make their nome with man-the cat, the rat and the dog. There has been so much said about the harm done by cats that progressive farmers no longer tolerate stray cats about their property. Without counting any other loss from cats, the destruction of insecteating birds calls for the most rigorous control of this persistent prowler of the fields. Studies of hunting cats show that they follow regular routes, so that if one is seen it can usually be captured by setting a trap in the locality. Various forms of box traps are effective. since the cat is not a trap-shy animal. No estimate can be made of the damage done by rats at a distance from dwellings. In warm weather, rats take to the fields and marshes and are completely "wild." They are almost as fond of water as muskrats, and swim and dive about as well as their valuable relatives.

Improve Butterfat Yields In 10 years members of dairyherd improvement associations throughout the country have so improved their herds that the average yearly butterfat production of association cows has increased about 30 pounds, reports Dr. J. F. Kendrick of the federal bureau of dairy industry. This increase in production. brought about by culling out poor producers, by feeding the remaining rows according to production, and by better selection of dairy sires. has increased returns to association

46 Species of Bais There are 46 species of bats in the United States, the National Wildlife federation reports in its Wildlife Week stamp album. Although bats in some parts of the world eat fruit, and a few of them suck the blood of animals, all the bats in this country live on insects. The largest bat in North America is the California mastiff bat, six and a half inches long. Anybody past the age of 40 who is able to bear the squeak of a hat has exceptionally good hearing, scientists say.

Old French Custom

Absence may make the heart grow fonder in other lands, but not so in southwestern France. When a young man there does not show up to kiss the waters of a famous well with his sweetheart the match s off. According to custom, betrothed couples often take themselves to the well in the La Double forest near Riviera, kissing the water as a symbol of their future union. If the young woman in the case becomes impatient at not being invited to the forest, she can test her sweetheart by suggesting the excursion. Should he fail to come. however, she knows that the match is definitely off.

Reich Enlists Young Women

Rural Areas Suffer as Youths Desert to Find Future in Cities.

BERLIN.-In line with the Nazi precept that every German must do his bit for the Third Reich's economic welfare, an army of 200,000 to 300,000 young girls is being mobilized to share the burdens of the overworked German hausfrau on the land and in the cities.

Just as all German youths must serve six months in the labor corps as a preliminary to their two years' military service, so the German girl is bound to serve at least six months as a "mother's helper" in some home. This service, voluntary for the first few years of the Nazi regime, became compulsory at the beginning of 1939 and goes into full swing with the end of the German school year. It is known as the "duty year for girls" Last year the volunteers earned from $2 to $10 month, plus board.

Women Not Homebodies.

A great change has taken place in the Nazi attitude toward Germany's emale population. When Adolf Hitler came to power, there was widespread unemployment and "the woman's place was in the home." Now the government has had to adapt its credo to its economic needs and every effort is made to get the woman out of the home and into industry.

More women are being put to work constantly, and an increasing number are taking the places of men sent to labor on the Reich's fortifications, road building and reconstruction projects.

The German railways, for instance, recently announced that they would have to begin to "employ female help, preferably juveniles more than 16 years old," even for such work as freight dispatch-

Farm Areas Suffer.

With industry unable to get enough manpower, girls and young women are deserting their homes in the country by the thousands for more profitable and livelier jobs in the cities. The result is that the older women have been left to take care of more work than they alone can handle, with a detrimental effect on farming. It was mainly to check this labor shortage on the land that a decree was issued that all girls under 25 must enter the ranks of the girls' labor corps.

A large number of employables have just been let out of school, and the press is loud in reminding both prospective "duty year" girls and their employers to advertise or register for jobs. "Because of the labor scarcity, the help of the female youth is urgently needed by housewives in the country and the city," vrites the "Wirtschaft und Recht." "The duty year will provide housewives with the necessary help and will at the same time introduce our girls to the tasks of a German haus-

Beavers Help U.S. In Flood Control

WALSENBURG, COLO .- The federal government is depending on a band of 200 beavers to aid in a type of flood control work in western Huerfano county it hopes eventually to establish on a nation-wide scale.

While the agencies supporting the program are seeking additional funds to continue the work, the animals will be at work quietly, Game Warden H. G. Bayne said.

He explained that the animals are taken to points along the headwaters of the Huerfano and Cuchara

"They aid in checking flash floods which sweep away valuable soil," Bayne continued. "When their dams eventually fill with silt, the beavers move down stream, where they continue their constructive work in a new cycle.

"In five years the use of beavers will provide a self-supporting means of flood control, erosion and conservation in this region," he said.

Deer Obliges Hunter

POLLOCK, CALIF.-An obliging deer made the "supreme sacrifice" here to relieve the chagrin of a luckless hunter who had made several deer hunting trips this year without success. The deer walked into the residential premises of Jim Davis and waited until Davis got his gun and brought down his first buck of the season.

BERGDOLL AND HIS COUNTRY

Now that Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, most yous of military draft dodgers, has re- in a thousand and one social situations." and to take his medicine, the justifiable 1. .d that our army, government and the madic have had with him should end. Bergdoll at last has done the sporting thing. His punishment of exile and public contempt has been great. His official punishment now will doubtless be adequate. Good haters and despisers may as well call it a day-a very long day—and go about their business.

To many thoughtful people, a man like Bergdoll is interesting chiefly as a study in psychology and personality. He would be a good case for a master-analyst of human nature. He says now that he returns for several reasons, chief among them perhaps being his desire to rejoin his mother, wife and children, who "couldn't live in any place but America."

It is safe to say, perhaps, that Bergdoll himself feels the same way about it now. At last he appreciates the country where he was born and where his family fortune was made. He must have felt greatly out of place in Nazi Germany, and the Nazis certainly had no love for him.

Bergdoll has now about half-way re-Coomed himself. Final judgment may be assed when it is seen how he stands his punishment and what he does with the rest of his life.

CONVINCING THE DICTATORS

One of the best recent interpretations of te military situation in Europe is this, by con Blum, former French premier, writing I the New York Tribune:

"I have long been convinced that the worst Ganger of war resides in the persistent delusion of the dictators. For some years they have won without risking anything. Perhaps the whole chance of peace lies in convincing them that any new aggression would encounter resistance and lead to war.

"If the situation is regarded from this standpoint, what European event could be i tore pacific and more effectual than the con- pital lusion of the British-French-Russian agree-

Il think their defensive opponents are bluffing. But Americans have watched the suffering of the spines of the French and British governments with growing respect. Lately the accession of Poland, Rumania, Turkey and other small countries to their side shows a growing conviction on the continent that the former pacifists now mean

The accession of Russia and some minor dictatorships to the ranks of the big democracies, while confusing the "ideological" lineup, should be a conclusive warning to the two armed countries justly called "aggressive." Hitler and Mussolini and their advisers—if any-should realize now that they cannot any longer with their game of bluff, threat and grab.

OLD HOMES, VANISHED WEALTH

Westbrook Pegler, prosperous syndicate columnist, who still gets around a bit, takes note of the decay of fine homes and families, which has been proceeding lately at a faster nace than usual.

"Everywhere I roam," he says, "there is evidence, in the dilapidation of old homes, that if wealth does tend to concentrate in the and a small group of people, then at group itself is like a golf club in that

.e membership is always changing.

"The old ones die off or go broke and wietly vanish, and the heirs of those who did not go broke, on coming into the money, take second or third cut after the taxes have been collected, and, dividing it among them, find that individually they are unable to maintain the old mansions of the best fami- of active service with the railroad. lies."

This fact is observable in any city. And it is a pity in some ways. As a social principle in democracy it is good, perhaps, for wealth to keep shifting and for classes to move up and down freely in the social and man thermometer during the night was 61 degrees. economic scale. Yet the fine old homes and classes in tennis.

the fine old people who lived in them have Another Diplomatic Triumph? nearly always "had something." They had, perhaps, dignity and culture and honorable standards, along with their gracious living. Something is gone from the community, possibly forever, when the old mansions are turned into cheap boarding houses, or sold for taxes and torn down to make room for public garages.

ARITHMETIC AND LIFE

Kids may play hookey from school because they don't want to do their arithmetic or some other school tasks, but "math" is really one of their best friends.

Dr. Martin L. Reymert, director of the laboratory for child research at Mooseheart, Ill., recently told members of a conference on delinquency prevention that arithmetic is "the most significant of all the studies," especially for boys. A boy who likes it, or masters it in spite of not liking it, has or develops an effective personality.

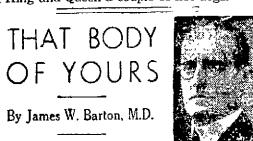

"Arithmetic," said Dr. Reymert, "represents a set of habits which are of basic importance in dealing with other people fairly and squarely, not only in such simple acts as sharing the cost of a luncheon, but in keeping score, in the household budget, in business,

As a matter of fact, the idea that children naturally dislike arithmetic in school is usually unfounded. Sometimes they don't like it because it hasn't been well taught, or they haven't quite grasped the principles essential to the problems they are working. Well-taught arithmetic may easily become a popular subject.

There is great satisfaction for boy or girl in understanding what it's all about. And there is a sense of self-reliance and security in the knowledge that certain rules, applied correctly, produce certain results.

The Seminole Indians of Florida, who never agreed to paleface rule, don't want to accept WPA checks because it "threatens their independence." Now, if we're in earnest about giving the country back to the Indians, here are the fellows who should have

In speaking of how easy, how almost naturally, normal individuals can become mental patients, Dr. . P. S. Cathcart, Chief Neuropsychiatrist of Pensions and National Health, says:

'During the life time of each and every one of have all been based on a belief that the de- us experiences are encountered that continue to have painful and distressing associations (or memories) because of our inability to understand or deal satisfictorly with them. Our only recourse is that of forgetting, but actually nothing is forgotten; certainly nothing of an emotional nature. The painful event may and does often keep out of our conscious thoughts. We push the memories of these painful experiences aside and call this 'repression' and the repressed experience is a 'conflict.' Just as long as we can prevent these repressions and conflicts from interfering with our everyday life and responsibilities we can consider ourselves normal, when these past painful experiences become a large part of our daily thoughts, they influence our actions and we do abnormal or unreasonable things. I believe the definition of a "normal" individual as outlined by Dr. Cathcart in National Health Review should help us all.

"The normal individual is one who is 'comparatively' free of symptoms, is unhampered by serious mental conflicts, has a satisfactory working ability and can love some one else besides himself. In other words, he is an individual who has the capability to become adjusted to life, to give and take, and to maintain a satifactory balance between himself and his surroundings or circumstances.

Cleaning Fluid Stops Bleeding

philia With Oxalic Acid, ink Remover.

TORONTO.-A startling discovery that the common hat-cleaning fluid and ink remover, oxalic acid, stops the 'royal curse' hemophilia

The report was made to the Federation of American Scientists for Experimental Biology by Arthur Steinberg and William R. Brown of Kensington hospital, Philadelphia.

At first the assembled biologists gasped in surprise and refused to believe. Oxalic acid is a poison and is known, in test tubes, to do exactly the opposite of helping blood to clot quickly.

Even when the Philadelphians disclosed that more than 500 humans, in more than a dozen large hospitals, have had their hemorrhages stopped, and in some cases their lives saved, with exalic acid, the biologists continued skeptical.

Process Demonstrated.

The fact that a tiny amount of the acid injected into a living body acted exactly the opposite from its test tube ways was finally demonstrated before the eyes of a group of doubters. They went to a University of Toronto laboratory, where acid was taken from the shelf, injected into a rabbit and reduced the animal's blood clotting time from two and a half minutes down to one and a half. Hemophilia has been called the "curse of kings and "curse of the Hapsburgs" because it is common in the Hapsburg royal family and to some extent in the Spanish and Russian royal lines.

Tests Successful.

Six American hemophiliacs, the report stated, had their time of stopping hemorrhage cut to less than that of normal persons by injections of exalic acid.

It was necessary to continue givbus. Mrs. Lewis Denton, Jr., created a disturbance at a house ing the acid from time to time until Mrs. Philip Donahue and son, in the Cottekill section in addiing the acid from time to time until

The report told of the acid stopping childbirth hemorrhage where all other remedies had failed. It stopped hemorrhage of "obstructive jaundice" in 15 to 30 minutes, after vitamin K, the new clotting vitamin, had failed. It was used for several different types of "bloodless" operations successfully.

Park Service Inaugurates

Charge for Auto Trailers Following recommendations of the advisory committee on camping, the national park service has announced a revision of fees in federal recreational demonstration areas, inaugurating a trailer charge, but reducing individual fees.

A 30-day trailer permit will cost 50 cents. A charge of five cents a night per camper, and 20 cents per week for the use of tent camp sites is established for organized camps. The regular fee of 25 cents a night per camper for organized camping facilities by groups is reduced to 15 cents. No change is made in rates for permanent camps used for seasonal organized camping.

Sixty organized camps have been prepared for this season, with more than 1.000.000 camper-days use expected, the park service said.

A new Automatic Gas Water Heater has just been developed, one which costs LESS TO BUY and LESS TO USE. It's small in size but the instant you open a hot water faucet piping hot water begins to flow, and it flows as long as the faucet is left open. It doesn't make any differ-

The reason for this is that inside the water heater is a coil of pipe. When you open the hot water faucet cold water flows through this pipe, but, because the water heater is AUTOMATIC you have also turned the gas on which, of course, heats the water. If the faucet were left open long enough you could heat the Hudson River . . . but, by the same token, if you don't open a faucet, you spend nothing. Cleveland. June 1 (P)-The 151st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. A, which adjourned yesterday, pledged cooperation toward union ' with the Protestant Episcopal Church and reunion with the Presbyterian Church (Southern)?

The 925 commissioners authorized their department of church cooperation and union to continue unionization efforts through a series of conferences, the first to be held June 14 at Princeton, N. J., with Protestant Episcopal Magazines-Mrs William Newrepresentatives.

The department will report to To, s, books and games-Mrs. the 1940 General Assembly at Rochester, N. Y. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (Southern) voted down yesterday at Montreat, N. C, a proposal to discontinue the movement for reunion and left the question of whether the permanent committee on union and cooperation should be abolished to its 88 constituent Presbyteries

Southern The Church and the Northern Church divided in 1861 over Civil War-issues Both have drawn up a bill of articles setting forth a possible basis for reunion

The Protestant Episcopa Church proposed union with the Presbyterian Church at its 1937 triennial convention. The proposal would require further action at the 1940 convention-

Reflected Glare Removed

From Illuminating Unit Providing illumination free from reflected glare, a new type of lighting unit vas demonstrated recently. It was a desk lamp so arranged that light from an ordinary bulb was passed through a sheet of transparent material, to remove the light vaves that cause reflected glare, ays Popular Mechanics. Those aves or vibrations of light useful or seeing were not affected, but he waves ordinarily reflected as hite specular light or glare were climinated. The effect on the printed page was a starting clarity of detail unobscured by reflections.

With glare eliminated, other lighting problems may be solved. Insensities can be increased to desired levels without the otherwise proportionate increase in reflected glare frowned upon by optical auglare frowned upon by optical authorities. The light source may be placed directly in front of the reader, thus assuring even distribution of light across the page without concern as to reflections. While the reader has no sense of brightness with polarized illumination, much higher intensities can be maintained.

Glare, according to optical experts, impairs the visual function secause it bleaches out the visual purple faster than it can be regenerated by the human system.

Old French Custom

Absence may make the heart grow fonder in other lands, but not so in southwestern France. When a young man there does not show up to kiss the waters of a famous well with his sweetheart the match is off. According to custom, betrothed couples often take themelves to the well in the La Double forest near Riviera, kissing the water as a symbol of their future union. If the young woman in the case becomes impatient at not being invited to the forest, she can test her sweetheart by suggesting the excursion. Should he fail to come, however, she knows that the match is definitely off.

Smallest Principality Has

Wide Variety of Climate Monaco is the world's smallest principality. Its 395 acres would scarcely be considered a good sized farm in western America. But within those acres is compressed a wide variety of both climate and activity. The outdoor activities include nearly all the modern sports -along with the custom of sitting in the sunshine for an apertif at the Cafe de Paris each afternoon, coast has its battle of flowers early each spring, and Monte Carlo is no exception. Folklore festivals, sailing regattas, and tournaments take the time until midsummer. Those who don't go in for such things get a thrill out of strolling through the medieval streets, or climbing the steep grades, or touring the art gallery, or visiting the gardens.

But the center of everything is, and probably always will be, the The mere atmosphere of that palace of chance is melodramatic. In a funereal silence, broken only by the droning of the croupiers, the crowds follow their systems, work their good luck charms, and hang on day after day, week in and week out, in the hope of getting something for nothing.

Robot SOS for Planes

A radio transmitter that would automatically reveal the location of an airplane in the event of a crash has been invented by a Pan American airways employee. The emergency radio would continue to proadcast signals as long as the batteries last. This may be several days. The signals so broadcast would lead searching parties either in airplanes or on the ground provided with radio compasses, to the exact location of the crash, the inventor asserts.

The radio is mounted on springs or on cushions of sponge rubber in the tail of the plane to safeguard it from the impact of a crash. It is insulated against fire by an asbestos

Money to Burn

Bills charred almost beyond recognition, and bills soaked by water until they resemble chunks of mud, are included in the approximately $3,000,000 worth of currency which each year is sent to the United States treasury in Washington for redemption. Most of the mutilated money comes to Washington in the fall of the year; treasury experts have decided that this is because people hide bills among waste papers in stoves unused during the summer, and forget the money is there when they light the stove when the first cool evening comes

Same Flour, More Bread Larger loaves of bread can be baked from the same amount of flour heretofore used by first adding a small amount of Vitamin C to the flour, according to a patent awarded to Holger Jorgensen of Copenhagen, Denmark. Vitamin C has been identified as ascorbic acid and it is the latter that the inventor mixes into the dough before bak-ing. Only infinitesimal amounts of the vitamin are used-five one hundred-thousandths of a part of ascorbic acid for every part of flour. In experiments, loaves of bread 12.5 per cent greater in volume were obtained from flour containing the vitamin than bread baked from the same amount of flour to which the vitamin had not been added.

Happy Hunting Ground In its beautiful natural setting, Sun valley, Idaho, is a happy hunting ground for the fan who does his shooting with a camera. This picturesque western region is encircled by the Sawtooth range of mountains where deer, elk, big-horn sheep, mountain goat and antelope roam the slopes. There are opportunities for the camera hunter to stalk big game and "shoot" it in its native state. There are many subjects for the fan of artistic taste. There is wild life, primitive scenery, western characters, fast sport action and turbulent water scenes in the Salmon river country.

Auto Was Foreshadowed In Early 15th Century

The idea of the automobile dates back to the Fifteenth century, according to American Petroleum Institute. The scientists in Leonardo da Vinci's time did not visualize the streamlined vehicle of today, but they toyed with the idea of mixing air and fuel, igniting the mixture in an engine and using the power for driving machinery.

There were all kinds of ancient engine. In the Seventeenth century a Dutch scientist, Christian Huyghens, proposed to manufacture a "gunpowder engine." It was not so good, but it renewed interest in the possibilities of the internal combustion engine.

In the Eighteenth century people were agog over an engine which would run on coal gas. It was built by John Barber, an Englishman. Designs were improved, development was expedited, and the internal combustion engine manufacturing industry really was born. There were "double-acting" engines which used the crankshaft, connecting rods and piston assembly about the same as they are used in the modern internal combustion engine.

The German engine designer, Otto, adapted the principles of the first four-stroke-cycle theory advanced by the French scientist, Beau de Rochas. It became the forerunner of today's four-cycle automotive gas-

Reich Enlists Young Women

Rural Areas Suffer a Youths Desert to Find Future in Cities.

BERLIN.—In line with the Nazi precept that every German must do his bit for the Third Reich's coonomic welfare, an army of 300,000 to 300,000 young girls is being mobilized to share the burdens of the overworked German hausfrau en the land and in the cities.

Just as all German youths must serve six months in the labor corps as a preliminary to their two years' military service, so the German girl is bound to serve at least six months as a "mother's helper" in some home. This service, voluntary for the first few years of the Nazi regime, became compulsory at the beginning of 1939 and goes into full swing with the end of the German school year. It is known as the "duty year for girls" Last year the volunteers earned from $2 to $10 a month, plus board.

Women Not Homebodies. A great change has taken place in the Nazl attitude toward Germany's female population. When Adolf Hitler came to power, there was widespread unemployment and "the woman's place was in the home." Now the government has had to adapt its credo to its economic needs and every effort is made to get the woman out of the home and into industry.

More women are being put to work constantly, and an increasing number are taking the places of men sent to labor on the Reich's fortifications, road building and reconstruction projects.

The German railways, for instance, recently announced that they would have to begin to "employ female help, preferably juveniles more than 16 years old," even for such work as freight dispatch-

Farm Areas Suffer.

With industry unable to get enough manpower, girls and young women are deserting their homes in the country by the thousands for more profitable and livelier jobs in the cities. The result is that the older women have been left to take care of more work than they alone can handle, with a detrimental offect on farming. It was mainly to check this labor shortage on the land that a decree was issued that all girls under 25 must enter the ranks of the girls' labor corps.

A large number of employables have just been let out of school, and the press is loud in reminding both prospective "duty year" girls and their employers to advertise or register for jobs. "Because of the labor scarcity, the help of the female youth is urgently needed by housevives in the country and the city."

writes the "Wirtschaft und Recht." "The duty year will provide housewives with the necessary help and will at the same time introduce our girls to the tasks of a German haus-

Beavers Help U. S. In Flood Control

WALSENBURG, COLO .- The federal government is depending on a band of 200 beavers to aid in a type of flood control work in western Huerfano county it hopes eventually to establish on a nation-wide scale.

While the agencies supporting the program are seeking additional funds to continue the work, the animals will be at work quietly, Game Warden H. G. Bayne said.

He explained that the animals are taken to points along the headwaters of the Huerfano and Cuchara rivers.

"They aid in checking flash floods which sweep away valuable soil," Bayne continued. "When their dams eventually fill with silt, the beavers move down stream, where they continue their constructive work in a new cycle.

Deer Obliges Hanter

POLLOCK, CALIF.-An obliging deer made the "supreme sacrifice" here to relieve the chagrin of a luckless hunter who had made several deer hunting trips this year without success. The deer walked into the residential premises of Jim Davis and waited until Davis got his gun and brought down his first buck of the season.

The beavers are protected by law, but if their work was allowed to remain untouched roads might be washed out and culverts would be impassable.

Sea Piracy Attempted

In America During 1870 Freebooters were believed to have long since vanished from American waters when a short-lived attempt to bring back the days of plunder and piracy was made on the western coast of Mexico in May,

Would-be buccaneers seized the merchant ship Forward, and followed this action by raiding the custom house at Guaymas, forcing the foreign merchants to pay them large sums of money and compelling the American consul to supply coal for the vessel.

When he learned of this outrage, Commander Low of the U. S. S. Mohican, then cruising in those waters, took immediate action. Soon a game of hide and seek began between the Americans and the elusive craft. Eventually it was learned that the raiders were in the vicinity of Boca Teacapan where they proposed to land their plunder.

Commander Low ordered a landing force of United States marines and bluejackets to proceed up the river in six boats for the purpose of bringing the marauders to terms. Forty miles from Boca Teacapan they discovered the Forward aground and heading inshore.

Immediately the marines and sailors climbed aboard without opposition and arrested six members of her crew. At this moment a boatload of pirates attempted to leave the ship, and efforts to intercept them were met with a burst of fire from the shore which killed one man and wounded several oth-

Unknown to the Americans the wily pirates had prepared a veri-table ambush by landing about 170 men with artillery and rifles where they could rake the vessel from. stem to stern with their fire.

Unable to release the grounded vessel or to rout the raiders with their limited forces, the naval party promptly set the ship afire and blasted it with shrapnel before returning to the Mohican, thus ending an abortive attempt to revive the profession of piracy in those waters.

Synthetic Textile Fiber Predicted 273 Years Ago

A prediction made 273 years ago by Robert Hooke has been fulfilled in our times more perfectly than he could possibly have foreseen. Some time prior to 1665 Hooke built himself a microscope and examined among other things, a number of textile materials, writes Edward R. Schwarz in "Technology Review." As a result, we have from his tests not only detailed and penetratingly keen descriptions of his observations but some of the finest micrographs of fiber and fabric ever

Said he, in "Micrographia": "A pretty kind of artificial stuff I have seen, looking almost like transparent parchment, horn or isinglass and perhaps some such thing it may be it looked very like the substance of the silk. And I have often thought that probably there might be a way found out to make an artificial glutinous composition much resembling, if not fully as good, nay better, than that excrement or whatever substance it be out of which the silkworm wiredraws his clew. If such a composition were found it were certainly an easy matter to find very quick ways of drawing it out into small wires for use. I need not mention the uses of such an invention, nor the benefit that is likely to accrue to the finder; they being sufficiently obvious. This hint, therefore, may, I hope, give some ingenious, inquisitive person an occasion of making some trials, which, if successful, I have my aim, and I suppose he will have no occasion to be

Tower of Pisa Has U. S. Rival The Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy, long considered a world wonder, has its living counterpart in the famed Grizzly Giant, a towering Sequoia tree in Yosemite National park, comparative figures reported to the national park service regional office of the interior department disclosed.

Figures from Yosemite reveal that the big tree, 209 feet high, leans 18.3 feet off center or approximately four degrees and 58 minutes. So well known for its off-center angle of four degrees and 27 minutes or 14 feet, the Tower of Pisa, 179 feet high, leans less than the Grizzly Giant. While the angle is so apparent in the latter, it is far less noticeable in the great Sequoia due to its large spreading branches and proximity of surrounding trees.

In the absence of F. Charles Adler, who was to have con-ducted the orchestra and who was ill at the Saratoga Hospital, Armand Balendonck, conductor of the Springfield, Mass., Federal Symphony Orchestra mounted the podium, and with only two days of rehearsing with this group of men, presented a program which merited a much larger audience. The musicians displayed amazing skill in their playing abilities and ensemble work, and any fatigue from the bus trip from Albany and the performance for children in the heat of the day did not seemingly affect the performance.

The triumph of the program was the "March Slav" by Tschaikovsky and the Wagner "Rienzi Overture." The firmness, fluency and accuracy with which the orchestra set forth florid passages was one of the points calling for special admiration.

The program included two symphonies, Beethoven's No. 8 and Schubert's No. 5 in B flat major, and the Brahm's "Academic Overture." As an encore the tone poem, "Finlandia" by Sibelius was played exception. Folklore festivals, sailing regattas, and tournaments take up the time until midsummer. Those who don't go in for such things get a thrill out of strolling through the medieval streets, or climbing the steep grades, or touring the art gallery, or visiting the gardens.

But the center of everything is, and probably always will be, the casino. The mere atmosphere of that palace of chance is melodramatic. In a funereal silence, broken only by the droning of the croupiers, the crowds follow their systems, work their good luck charms, and hang on day after day, week in and week out, in the hope of getting something for nothing.

Robot SOS for Planes

A radio transmitter that would automatically reveal the location of an airplane in the event of a crash has been invented by a Pan American airways employee. The emergency radio would continue to broadcast signals as long as the batteries last. This may be several days. The signals so broadcast would lead searching parties either in airplanes or on the ground provided with radio compasses, to the exact location of the crash, the inventor asserts. The radio is mounted on springs or on cushions of sponge rubber in the tail of the plane to safeguard it from the impact of a crash. It is insulated against fire by an asbestos

Money to Burn

Bills charred almost beyond recognition, and bills soaked by water until they resemble chunks of mud, are included in the approximately $3,000,000 worth of currency which each year is sent to the United States treasury in Washington for redemption. Most of the mutilated money comes to Washington in the fall of the year; treasury experts have decided that this is because people hide bills among waste papers in stoves unused during the summer, and forget the money is there when they light the stove when the first cool evening comes

Same Flour, More Bresd 🥶 Larger loaves of bread can be baked from the same amount of flour heretofore used by first adding a small amount of Vitamin C to the flour, according to a patent awarded to Holger Jorgensen of Copenhagen, Denmark. Vitamin C has been identified as ascorbic acid and it is the latter that the inventor mixes into the dough before baking. Only infinitesimal amounts of the vitamin are used-five one hundred-thousandths of a part of ascorbic acid for every part of flour. In experiments, loaves of bread 12.5 per cent greater in volume were obtained from flour containing the vitamin than bread baked from the same amount of flour to which the vitamin had not been added. ----

Auto Was Foreshadowed In Early 15th Century

The idea of the automobile dates back to the Fifteenth century, according to American Petroleum Institute. The scientists in Leonardo da Vinci's time did not visualize the streamlined vehicle of today. but they toyed with the idea of mixing air and fuel, igniting the mixture in an engine and using the power for driving machinery.

There were all kinds of ancient ideas about the internal combustion engine. In the Seventeenth century a Dutch scientist, Christian Huyghens, proposed to manufacture a "gunpowder engine." It was not so good, but it renewed interest in the possibilities of the internal combustion engine.

In the Eighteenth century people were agog over an engine which would run on coal gas. It was built by John Barber, an Englishman. Designs were improved, development was expedited, and the internal combustion engine manufacturing industry really was born. There were "double-acting" engines which used the crankshaft, connecting rods and piston assembly about the same as they are used in the modern internal combustion engine.

The German engine designer, Otto, adapted the principles of the first four-stroke-cycle theory advanced by the French scientist, Beau de Rochas. It became the forcrunner of today's four-cycle automotive gasre engine.

Sea Piracy Attempted

In America During 1870 Freebooters were believed to have long since vanished from American waters when a short-lived attempt to bring back the days of plunder and piracy was made on the western coast of Mexico in May,

Would-be buccaneers seized the merchant ship Forward, and followed this action by raiding the custom house at Guaymas, forcing the foreign merchants to pay them large sums of money and compelling the American consul to supply coal for the vessel

When he learned of this outrage, Commander Low of the U. S. S. Mobican, then cruising in those waters, took immediate action. Soon a game of hide and seek began beiween the Americans and the clusive craft. Eventually it was learned that the raiders were in the vicinity of Boca Teacapan where they proposed to land their plunder. Commander Low ordered a landing force of United States marines and bluejackets to proceed up the river in six boats for the purpose of bringing the marauders to terms. Forty miles from Boca Teacapan they discovered the Forward aground and heading inshore.

Immediately the marines and sailors climbed aboard without opposition and arrested six members of her crew. At this moment a boatload of pirates attempted to leave the ship, and efforts to intercept them were met with a burst of fire from the shore which killed one man and wounded several oth-

Unknown to the Americans the wily pirates had prepared a veritable ambush by landing about 170 men with artillery and rifles where they could rake the vessel from stem to stern with their fire.

Unable to release the grounded vessel or to rout the raiders with their limited forces, the naval party promptly set the ship afire and blasted it with shrapnel before returning to the Mohican, thus ending an abortive attempt to revive the profession of piracy in those

Synthetic Textile Fiber Predicted 273 Years Ago

A prediction made 273 years ago by Robert Hooke has been fulfilled in our times more perfectly than he could possibly have foreseen. Some time prior to 1665 Hooke built himself a microscope and examined among other things, a number of textile materials, writes Edward R. Schwarz in "Technology Review." As a result, we have from his tests not only detailed and penetratingly keen descriptions of his observations but some of the finest micrographs of fiber and fabric ever made.

Said he, in "Micrographia": "A pretty kind of artificial stuff I have seen, looking almost like transparent parchment, horn or isinglass and perhaps some such thing it may be it looked very like the substance of the silk. And I have often thought that probably there might be a way found out to make an artificial glutinous composition much resembling, if not fully as good, nay better, than that excrement or whatever substance it be out of which the silkworm wiredraws his clew. If such a composition were found it were certainly an easy matter to find very quick ways of drawing it out into small wires for use. I need not mention the uses of such an invention, nor the benefit that is likely to accrue to the finder; they being sufficiently obvious. This hint, therefore, may, I hope, give some ingenious, inquisitive person an occasion of making some trials, which, if successful, I have my aim, and I suppose he will have no occasion to be

Tower of Pisa Has U. S. Rival The Leaning Tower of Pisa in Italy, long considered a world wonder, has its living counterpart in the famed Grizzly Giant, a towering Sequoia tree in Yosemite National park, comparative figures reported to the national park service regional office of the interior department disclosed.

Figures from Yosemite reveal that the big tree, 209 feet high, leans 18.3 feet off center or approximately four degrees and 58 minutes. So well known for its off-center angle of four degrees and 27 minutes or 14 feet, the Tower of Pisa, 179 feet high, leans less than the Grizzly Giant. While the angle is so apparent in the latter, it is far less noticeable in the great Sequoia due to its large spreading branches and proximity of surrounding trees.

The musicians displayed amazing skill in their playing abilities and ensemble work, and any fatigue from the bus trip from Albany and the performance for children in the heat of the day did not seemingly affect the performance.

ing for special admiration.

The program included two symphonics, Beethoven's No. 8 and Schubert's No. 5 in B flat major, and the Brahm's "Academic Overture." As an encore the tone poem, "Finlandia" by Sibelius was played.

The concert for the children in the afternoon was as enthusiastically received and the children listened with marked attention, explanations by the conductor adding to the appreciation. The program included the "Fingal's Cave" overture by Mendelssohn. "Woodland Sketches" by MacDowell and the Tschaikovsky and Sibelius the Tschaikovsky and Sibeliu numbers that appeared on the evening program.

Malayan Prince Marries English Tailor's Daughter

Oxford, England, June 1 (P) = The pretty daughter of an English tailor became a Malayan princess today when she married Prince Mahmud of Trengganu at St. Giles registry office here.
The bride, 21-year-old Joyce

Blencowe, a chiropodist, and the bridegroom, brother of the sultan of the unfederated Malayan State, received many wedding gifts from well-wishers attracted by their story-book romance.

The young man, an Oxford student, had disobeyed his brother's order to return home "immediately and unmarried" when the romance first blossomed but was believed finally to have overcome his family's objections.

The couple booked passage on liner sailing for Malaya Friday.

Crowds have been increasing nightly at Powell's showgrounds where the O. C. Buck Shows are playing a week's engagement under the auspices of the Excelsion Volunteer Fire Department, headed by William Martin as chairman of the committee.

Especially pleasing to the crowds are the free circus attractions presented nightly by the famous flying birds. The Behrs, reputed to be one of the best acts of its kind in America, and by the Fearless Falcons who work 150 feet in midair without nets or safety devices. The trained animal circus has been enjoying good patronage all week, especially among the ladies and children.

Among the many riding devices are one or two entirely new to Kingston, the group consisting of 10, all of which are proving popular with the warm nights. Saturday afternoon a special children's matinee from 2 to 6 o'clock will be given, including the free circus acts, at reduced prices and no admission to the grounds.

Light, describing the explosion, said "it looked like the center of the house was staying up and the outside walls dropped away."
